

Closed to traffic due to construction

* Animal location may change from time to time.
 * Some animals may not be exhibited depending on their physical conditions or weather conditions.

- Restroom
- Restroom for disabled
- Restroom equipped with universal bed
- Ostomate compatible restroom
- Coin Lockers
- Rental strollers
- Diaper change tables
- Smoking area
- First aid station
- Automated External Defibrillator (AED)
- Nursing room
- Entrance / Exit
- Entrances to / Exit from indoor exhibits
- Free Wi-Fi
- Public phone
- Information center
- Cafeteria & Free rest area
- Free rest area
- Zoo Shop
- Snacks

Endangered Animals and the Zoo

The Roles of the Zoo
 Tokyo metropolitan zoos and aquarium including Ueno Zoo are protecting endangered animals through:

- Cooperation with other zoos and research institutes within and outside Japan
- Captive breeding
- Conservation research
- Promotion of public awareness

The Categories of the Extinction Risk

International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources (The Red List of IUCN)		Washington Convention (CITES)
EX	Extinct	Appendix I	× Commercial trade of the specimens is illegal
EW	Extinct in the Wild	Appendix II	△ Commercial trade of the specimens is possible Required to have an export permit and other documents issued by the government
CR	Critically Endangered	Appendix III	△ Commercial trade of the specimens is possible Required to have an export permit or a certificate of origin issued by the government
EN	Endangered	Not listed	Commercial trade of the specimens is possible
VU	Vulnerable
NT	Near Threatened
LC	Least Concern

↑ More likely to be extinct

The statuses of the animals are displayed on informational signboards.
 Note: A status is not indicated on some signboards.

Other: DD-Data Deficient NE-Not Evaluated